

YOUTH ART MONTH 2018-2019

Cover art by Poojitha D., 8th grade, Coppell ISD

YOUTH ART MONTH™

Youth Art Month (YAM) is an annual observance held each March to emphasize the value of art education for all children and to encourage support for quality school art programs. Youth Art Month was created in 1961 by the Art and Creative Materials Institute (ACMI), a non-profit association of art and craft materials manufacturers, in cooperation with the National Art Education Association, NAEA. In 1984, ACMI created the Council for Art Education (CFAE) to administer the national Youth Art Month program and encourage funding for the program. Current members of the Council include: ACMI, which provides all administrative support and the majority of the funding for National Youth Art Month; NAEA, whose members carry out local Youth Art Month activities and whose state affiliates help fund state Youth Art Month programs; The SHIP, a group of art materials exhibitors at the annual NAEA Convention; and the General Federation of Women’s Clubs, a volunteer organization dedicated to community improvement through volunteer service. Other involved organizations include the Association of Crafts & Creative Industries, Hobby Industries Association, and National Art Materials Trade Association.

To help promote observances, CFAE stimulates and coordinates Youth Art Month activities at the national level. The annual event, “School Flags Across the U.S....Flying High”, is an example. Each year, state Youth Art Month chairpersons hold a student flag competition. A theme is selected that is representative of the individual state and the spirit of Youth Art Month. A design is selected and made into a flag. A celebration is attended by families, friends, teachers and U.S. legislators. The flags are flown in a place of prominence in Washington, DC for the remainder of March. In addition, flags are then displayed in the Youth Art Month booth at the NAEA Convention and in the ACMI booth at the NAMTA Convention before being returned to the individual state.

Each March YAM spotlights art education through governors’ and mayors’ proclamations, states’ capitol events, and thousands of local exhibits. It has the endorsement and support of many U.S. Senators and members of Congress and state legislators who speak out on behalf of art education. The Council and NAEA encourage and assist state Youth Art Month Chairpersons, who are appointed by state art education association presidents, in their efforts to stimulate and coordinate state and local activities. These Chairpersons submit reports to the Council each year detailing their efforts and results.

At the NAEA Convention each year, the Council recognizes outstanding achievement at the state level by conferring awards on certain state chairpersons.

How do I get involved in Youth Art Month in my community? Anyone can start an observance. In most states, art educators organize observances and seek the support and help of others in their schools and community who have a genuine concern for quality art programs and are willing to work with others.

The Youth Art Month Theme for 2018-2019

"Your Art, Your Story"

Youth Art Month is more than a state art exhibit of exceptional student works of art and a student designed flag. The month of March is the time to showcase visual art programs throughout schools, districts, communities and Texas.

March is designated as National Youth Art Month. It is recognized throughout the fifty states as an opportunity to celebrate and serve as an advocacy tool to promote the importance of student art in educating children as a whole. Celebrate Youth Art Month in your schools; start planning today!

March is the official month to step up and promote your successes and exhibit your students' art within the community. Exhibits are held throughout the nation showcasing strong visual art programs from public and private educational facilities.

The state of Texas promotes Youth Art Month celebrations utilizing community centers, educational service centers, local art associations, galleries, school districts, and individual classrooms as a vehicle to advocate the importance of the visual arts.

The growing acknowledgement of March as Youth Art Month in Texas has demonstrated support for the arts. Educational organizations such as the PTA and PTO, along with local and state officials presently participate and support the annual celebrations. Youth Art Month is the single most important observance to advocate the strength of Texas visual art programs.

Making your local YAM count! Advocating for Texas visual art programs begins with the visual art instructor. As educators, it is important that all activities and all media coverage are reported to the Texas Yam chairperson. Each district that submits a YAM report will be included in the Texas YAM report. YAM reports can be submitted online or on paper ELECTRONICALLY only.

A calendar is provided in this packet and online to assist educators in developing a working timeline to organize events and document successful ideas, promotions, competitions, and exhibits in celebration of Youth Art Month.

Recording exhibitions and activities is a vital part of YAM. Please take time to submit a report online or on paper and submitted electronically, to be included in our state report. Texas is a strong art education state; help show the nation how we promote our programs by submitting a report to be included in the state Youth Art Month Report.

Ideas to Celebrate Youth Art Month in Texas

- Request a YAM Mayoral Proclamation
- Celebrate BIG ART DAY!
- Have local competitions with shows at libraries, banks, universities, community centers, museums, retirement homes, book stores, shopping malls, and more.
- Have an opening reception. Get publicity for your event.
- Send flyers with student artwork to principals.
- Give out prints of students work in the community.
- Have an art day on your campus.
- Create a calendar of student art work.
- Make paper ties for the staff at your school. Have students write their names and artist statement on the back.
- Make clay whistles and whistle for art.
- Talent shows; show off that student work.
- March for art; have a parade of artwork.
- Dress as your favorite artist.
- Create large kaleidoscopes then laminate them and hang over the lockers. Looks like real tiles.
- Create a silkscreen self portrait of each student.
- Invite guest artists to demonstrate to your students. Invite other classes and administrators to join you.
- Have an evening in Paris; decorate the halls, have the band/orchestra play; Culinary Arts serves cheese; have a raffle for student artwork and a “follies” show.
- Create art gifts for school board members and superintendent.
- Serve art cake to your staff. Do an artist cake.
- Create a traveling art journal.
- Do a school-wide collage based on an artist such as Faith Ringgold.
- Paint faces at lunch.
- Create a spring collage.
- Draw Blue Bell-like cows and do in black and white.
- On hotel TVs, add YAM to the events tape that runs along the bottom – especially in Austin to highlight the State Capitol Exhibit.
- Have a Family Art Night.
- Have TV and newspaper coverage of YAM events.
- Have students create cards and have a card exchange.
- Do sidewalk chalk art.
- Create oil pastel resists.
- Sell ceramic art pins.
- Make torn paper collages.
- Have each student create a personal symbol.
- Fold origami mobiles.
- Make every teacher in your school a room sign.
- Create an Animoto music video of student work; share with parents, school board members and on your webpage. <http://animoto.com>

- Show your diversity; have artwork reflect various cultures.
- Create art podcasts and share with teachers and school board members.
- Make banners and hang them in business offices.
- Get a YAM billboard in your town.
- Have a student artist of the day for every day in March.
- Create Gyotaku-inspired fish prints. Bring in art history.
- Release balloons with artwork attached – use the theme of World Peace.
- Have an art day with all levels of art students. Let them interact with each other.
- Make cut paper portraits.
- Have student donate their work to the PTA at a March meeting. Have these works include an artist's statement and a "thought to ponder." This would be a question students thought the viewer would wonder about while they viewed their work and that the student would be prepared to discuss in length.
- Auction artwork to fund art programs.
- Include very young artists and special needs students in all shows (Pre-K-12).
- Put YAM on your school marquee.
- Create posters from student artwork.
- Make Wind-powered art works, spinners, and/or decorative stakes to display in public areas in mall, office, government buildings in planters, etc.
- Paint canvas murals to be hung in public places on fences, walls, light poles, etc.
- Plant gardens or flowers in public places
- Painted benches in public place (work with city government and/or parks)
- Clay birdbaths or bird feeders for playgrounds or city parks
- Mosaic stepping stones for a pathway in a school or city park
- A walkway or path made of hand-painted river rocks

Document all YAM activities and events. Send photographs of all displays and events, plus copies of publicity to Gretchen Bell at Gretchen.Bell@cfisd.net.

REQUESTING A YAM MAYORAL/GUBINATORIAL PROCLAMATION/SCHOOL BOARD RESOLUTION

- Write a letter. Include the suggested proclamation and/or endorsement.
- Make a follow-up call. One week later is suggested.
- Your Mayor/Governor will read the information, approve the proclamation and have it prepared for his/her signature. After you pick it up, duplicate it for distribution.
- Include an appearance request. The Mayor/Governor's secretary will probably contact you regarding this matter.
- The Board of Education will usually add the request to the agenda. Public officials are usually eager to participate in YAM, if you will just ask them!
